Indian leaders condemn India-imposed unofficial border blockade on Nepal

Various Indian leaders, who arrived Kathmandu representing their respective political parties, have also taken the opening session of NC's 13th national convention as an opportunity to express their solidarity with Nepal as well as its welfare by condemning the unofficial border blockade India imposed on Nepal following the promulgation of a new constitution in September 20, 2015.
Bharatiya Communist Party (Marxist) leader Jogendra Sharma said that Nepali citizens had to bear the brunt of the economic embargo imposed by India on Nepal.

Stating that India was trying to impose religious extremism on Nepal, he assured that the Indian public was with the Nepalis in spirit at the time of adversity.

Similarly, stating that the India-imposed border blockade and its repercussions on Nepalis had pained him, Democratic Socialist Party Vice-Chair Vijaya Pratap apologized for this very untoward act of India.

He was of the opinion that Nepal had to put up with India's dominance since socialism was yet to be institutionalized in India.

On the occasion, Bharatiya Communist Party leader Pallav Singh Gupta welcomed the newly promulgated national charter of Nepal, stating that it was progressive one.
